SUMMIT COUNTY FARM LAD RAISES SKUNKS

Starts With One and Now Has 15
Out By the Barn— Says it Pays

If more boys in Summit County were of the mind of Vernon Schovier who lives on a farm near West Richfield and who is in his second year of pig club work, there would be skunk clubs as well as pig and calf and poultry clubs run for farm boys.

C. F. Tom, club leader of Summit County, has been to Vernon's farm and has been the small pack of domesticated "polecats" which the lad is raising for their pelts. It began when he trapped a female, put splints on her broken leg and kept her in a box-coop in the barn. She has seven little ones all of which, successfully raised have now multiplied to 15.

Vernon has rigged up box-coops with wire runs for the animals. He feeds them butchers offal. They give no trouble, he declares, and the price of the pelts makes it well worth while to raise them.

MEMBERSHIP IN OHIO FARM BUREAU GAINING

Do they stick to the Farm Bureau? Sure they do!

Many of the 88 counties, according to the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation have tried out the country bureau for a year. There were folks who, a year ago, said that perhaps the farmers might stick together for a year, but beyond that, well look out.

Now, here's Ottawa county, for an example. In a recent round-up which the farm bureau there conducted itself, with the help of a man from the Federation, the membership of 1100 was maintained and paid up for the second year. Latest indications are that to that number will be added 10 per cent more, as three townships are still to be heard from.

In 24 counties efforts are being put forth by the county bureaus in membership lines. A year ago, it is pointed out, those campaigns were conducted by the Federation and the counties co-operated. Now the local folks are doing it themselves.

Hear one man before you answer, several before you decide.

Mrs. Homekeeper

We welcome the "home account."

Often it is a checking account for system, convenience and economy.

And then, there's sure to be a savings account—the fund used for the fresh coat of white paint, the rug for the living room and the other homey things, all the way to the children's education and the day when Dad retires as the family provider.

A good Homekeeper has both a checking and a savings account. We invite yours.
